

Assess IQ Live Interrupt

Help them before it goes wrong.

The live stamp on Assess IQ. A camera is on the job. Assess IQ already scores the plan against reality. Live Interrupt turns that score into Stop, Continue, or Call the supervisor while there is still time to help someone.

The moment

The camera is already on. The plan is already scored. The next few seconds decide whether someone goes home.

Camera on the job

Field IQ glasses and plant cameras already watch the work face. Every observation is a chance to help someone in time.

Plan versus reality

Assess IQ already compares the Genesis procedure to what is happening now. The score is live. The stamp must be live too.

Seconds to act

Live Interrupt decides Stop, Continue, or Call the supervisor while the wrench is still in the air. That speed is the point.

What Live Interrupt is

Three schema-safe choices, delivered at job speed, so a person can be helped before the job goes wrong.

Stop

Halt the next action the instant the score says the job has left the plan. The interrupt arrives in time to protect the person on the tool.

Continue

Release the next action when the plan and the picture agree, and confidence is high enough to keep the crew moving.

Call the supervisor

Bring a human to the job the moment the score asks for help. Confidence that is unsure becomes a supervisor call.

How Jev fits — the snap Assess IQ needed

Jev is TypeSafe System One, the Jev-class decision model that lets Assess IQ decide at the speed of the job. Shared state goes in. A typed Stop, Continue, or Escalate comes out — with confidence — in milliseconds.

Typed choices

Stop, Continue, and Escalate are the only answers on the paper. The model picks from the options you defined.

Milliseconds

A Jev-class call typically lands in tens to a few hundred milliseconds — fast enough for a live camera loop.

Confidence that asks

When the model is sure, Assess IQ acts. When it is unsure, Live Interrupt calls a human.

Cheap on every frame

The snap is inexpensive enough to run on every observation Assess IQ already scores.

How the family hangs together

Live Interrupt is the live decision on the Assess IQ score. The rest of the Intelligence Flywheel writes the paper, watches the job, and keeps the record.

Genesis

The plan — the scored procedure the job is measured against.

Permit IQ

Authority and controls — gas, fire watch, validity, hold points.

Field IQ

Eyes on the job — glasses, cameras, and the live work face.

Tacit

The expert’s living memory, quoted on the paper when it is relevant.

Assess IQ

Scores plan versus reality. Live Interrupt is the live stamp on that score.

Compound IQ

Every interrupt and override, with Distillery, makes the next job sharper.

Work Intelligence

EON Control keeps the record — every stamp, every override, on the ledger.

Why it matters

Lives depend on the interrupt. Speed is how Assess IQ becomes help while the crew is still on the unit.

Lives

The interrupt arrives while someone can still be helped. A Stop or a supervisor call in the second that matters is the product.

Supervisor leverage

High-confidence Continues keep the crew moving. Humans take the calls that need a human. One supervisor covers more jobs, with better timing.

Every observation on the record

Every stamp and every override lands on Work Intelligence and EON Control. The job writes the next job.

Fact sources and confidence

The scrap of paper is copied truth. We only decide from what the plant already knows.

Genesis SOP step

The real words of the procedure, copied onto the paper.

Permit IQ flags

Gas, fire watch, validity, and hold points, already structured.

Code checks

Counts, limits, and lock tallies the plant already computes.

A Tacit quote

The expert's own sentence, retrieved when it is relevant.

Frontier / Gemini caption

A caption of this photo — observation only, ready for the stamp.

Confidence is quality. High confidence → Assess IQ acts. Unsure → Live Interrupt stops the job and escalates a human. That is how trust is built at job speed.
